

George Gluck is a New York-based independent arbitrator and mediator for international and domestic commercial disputes. Prior to becoming a full-time ADR neutral in 2001, he was a partner in a large New York law firm. For more than twenty years, he represented clients in complex U.S. and international commercial transactions. He spent part of the 1990's in Europe, representing parties in cross-border transactions.

He is a Fellow of the College of Commercial Arbitrators and is listed as neutral on the panels of leading alternative dispute resolution organizations. His arbitration and mediation experience is diverse, involving cases varying in size and complexity, and covering a broad legal spectrum including: telecommunications, energy, mergers & acquisitions, business associations (corporations, partnerships, limited liability companies, joint ventures), finance (commercial/investment banking), accounting, intellectual property, franchise, licensing, pharmaceuticals/biotechnology, employment, technology, sale of goods, and real property.

He is a member of the New York and Ontario (Canada) Bars and received a J.D. from Osgoode Hall Law School, Toronto; an A.M. in International Relations from The Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, Tufts University; and a B.A. (Hons.), First Class, in History and Political Science from York University, Toronto. He was the Canadian recipient of the ITT International Fellowship in 1973.
